

Прочитайте, переведите текст, ответьте на вопросы.

Gardening is one of England's most popular hobbies

England is renowned for its love of gardening. Many British households dedicate considerable time and effort to cultivating beautiful gardens filled with colorful flowers, neatly trimmed hedges, and vibrant vegetable patches. This passion stems from centuries-old traditions passed down through generations.

The act of gardening offers numerous benefits beyond mere aesthetics. It provides relaxation, stress relief, exercise, fresh produce, and opportunities for creative expression. Moreover, gardening encourages ecological consciousness by promoting biodiversity and sustainable living practices.

Community involvement plays a significant role in English gardening culture. Local garden clubs organize competitions, workshops, and exhibitions where enthusiasts gather to showcase their creations and exchange tips. These events foster a sense of belonging and strengthen bonds among neighbors.

Famous figures like Monty Don, Alan Titchmarsh, and Carol Klein have further popularised gardening through television programs, books, and magazines. Their expertise inspires countless amateur gardeners nationwide.

However, challenges arise too. Climate changes pose difficulties for certain plant varieties, while urbanisation reduces available land suitable for cultivation. Despite these obstacles, enthusiasm remains undiminished as people continue finding innovative solutions to overcome limitations.

Whether tending roses in cottage gardens or nurturing exotic fruits indoors, gardening continues to bring joy and fulfillment to millions across England.

1. What makes gardening so popular in England?
2. Name some famous personalities associated with gardening in Britain.
3. Describe the benefits derived from engaging in gardening.
4. Explain how community involvement supports gardening culture in England.
5. Mention some challenges faced by gardeners in modern-day England.
6. Provide examples of what types of plants are grown in English gardens.